

'OH, OH, CINDY!' OPENS TO CROWDED HOUSE

Elks' Tunesful Musical Play Includes Music From Broadway Shows.

LEADS WELL TAKEN

Merit of Production Due to Number of Beautiful Girls in Cast.

The tired business man and the overworked student of Columbia, besides several hundred other Columbians who come in neither category, will find a real treat at the Hall Theater tonight and tomorrow night. "Oh, Oh, Cindy!" given under the auspices of the local Elks Lodge for the benefit of the Elks' Christmas tree and other charity funds, began last night a three-night run that promises to surpass in attendance and the enthusiasm called forth anything in the amateur dramatic line staged in Columbia since the famous "Hundred Dollar Bill."

The Elks' tunesful musical show, a peppy revue which includes music from the best Broadway shows of the last three seasons, was given before a packed theater last night. Frequent demands for encores of the dancing and musical numbers showed the audience's opinion of the merit of the show. Last night's performance did not go as smoothly as the two remaining ones ought to move, due to the short time the cast has had for preparation; at times the lines came haltingly and the handling of the stage property was not smoothly done, but the audience took these defects with good nature.

Beautiful Girls in Cast and Chorus. The leads in "Oh, Oh, Cindy!" fill their roles well, almost without exception. But the outstanding merit of the production, the feature that is responsible for its undoubted success, is the number of beautiful girls in the cast and chorus. No errors in lines or dancing or slips in stage "business" can detract from the charm the fresh, young faces or the beauty of the costuming.

The leading roles, Cindy and the Prince, are filled by Miss Ruth Burns and Harry Stevens. Miss Burns has a good soprano voice and her singing of "Give Me All of You" is one of the high lights in the show. In the ingenue part Miss Edith Brown, as Blanche Blondina of the Folies, is a real star; her dancing and singing of "A Dove Cote for Two" evoked a storm of applause. In the comic roles Robert Herrick, with his Irish fun, and Charles Lowrance, a blackface comedian of unusual ability for an amateur, were the favorites with the audience, and were ably supported by Miss Allene Richardson, Warren Coglier and Miss Martha Schwabe. The parts of Robinson Crusoe and Santa Claus were well taken care of by J. E. Wrench and Fred C. Edwards, respectively.

Two dancing groups—the Big Four and the Three Bears—were applauded frequently. The first named group is composed of University girls: Misses Kathleen Fleming, Katherine Cole, Georgia France and Kathleen Titzell. In the Three Bears are Alexander Maitland, Gilbert Moore and John Brackett.

Harlequin Dance Best of Evening. Probably the best dancing number of the evening, however, was the harlequin dance which opened the second act. This chorus is composed of Stephens College girls whose training seemed to be of unusually high character. Another hit was the drum corps chorus, of Christian College girls. A pleasing feature was the Savitar Queen number, in which the Savitar Queens of last year—Misses Alice Wiedmer, Margaret Way, Frances Bandy, Irene Christie, Lucille Gross and Kathleen Titzell—took part.

A very effective chorus number closes the show. In this number Mrs. Laura Jo Plattner, who has been an amateur favorite in Columbia as Miss Laura Jo Schwabe, introduced the various groups with popular songs of other years—"Smiles," "Hindustan" and even "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Two specialty dances—by Miss Margaret Trigg and Miss Lucille Edwards—brought forth vociferous demands for more, to which the dancers responded graciously. Miss Founye Hanlon, as the "Spirit of Crusoe," gave a dance that was well received.

"Oh, Oh, Cindy!" is staged by Eugene J. Costello.

REVIVE ELECTRIC LINE*K. C. Capitalists Working on Earlier Plans—Include Columbia.

Columbia may not long be hidden away in the recesses of Central Missouri, if men behind the projected double-track electric line from Kansas City to St. Louis can push to completion their earlier plans. According to an article in yesterday's Kansas City Star the money for the road is already in sight.

At the time the road was being surveyed through here seven or eight years ago it was made the occasion for a banquet. President A. Ross Hill, of the University, and President St. Clair-Moss, of Christian College, made speeches. At that time about $2,000 was collected to help defray the expenses of surveying. Many of the backers of the proposed improvement were also present.

The survey follows closely through this section of the Old Trails route and passes through Moors' Switch in the northern part of town. Columbia residents recall the excitement and preparations following the survey through here.

The estimated cost of the cross-state interurban is $50,000,000.

THIS SON INTO THE NAVY?*Colonel Persons Tells of Hopes for a New Baby.

That this, his fifth son, will prefer the navy to the army, is the wish expressed by Colonel Persons today. "All the others are planning to be soldiers, and I like variety," he said this morning.

Born to the booming of artillery, and on Armistice Day the baby's horoscope should show a tendency toward the military life. The future admiral is a fine baby, his father says, and will make a good "gob" someday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—The War Department was censured by the American Legion today as contributing to the spread of anti-Americanism through its leniency with conscientious objectors.

The Legion recommended two years of probation for immigrants, provisions for the teaching of English, no soft treatment for military prisoners who refused to serve in the army and the filing of records of immigrants in every naturalization court.

The Legion took immediate notice today of the attack on Legion members at Centralia, Washington. Cheers greeted the announcement that one of the attackers had been hanged, and sixteen captured.

MINE LEADERS AWAIT RETURN OF STRIKERS

Officials Think Thousands Will Not Resume Work.

CONFERENCE FRIDAY

European and South American Countries Are Affected.

By J. L. O'SULLIVAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—Coal miners on strike since November 1, were expected, by officials of the United Mine Workers, to be back at their jobs again today.

The normal production of coal, union leaders here believe, will not be reached for some time. A few miners may still strike until some definite action is taken by the conference to be held at Washington Friday.

Union leaders who have been in session here since Monday, dispersed today.

Representatives of the bituminous districts will gather next Friday in Washington in response to the call of William B. Wilson, secretary of labor.

Attorneys of the United Mine Workers today appealed the ruling of Judge A. B. Anderson, to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which will be filed within the next few days according to Attorney Warren.

The appeal will contend that the war is now ended, and the laws under which Judge Anderson formulated his ruling are no longer effective.

Will Hold Conference Friday.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Reports on the number of miners returning to work were anxiously awaited by officials today, while Secretary of Labor Wilson, went ahead with his plans for the conference of Friday.

Although the government believes the men will resume work as soon as the revocation of the strike call is thoroughly circulated, many officials believe thousands will not return.

Operators were quick to accept Wilson's invitation to the conference, and representatives of both sides will begin to arrive early tomorrow.

Meanwhile miners were idle and the fuel shortage is felt more keenly.

Several European and Latin American countries are paralyzed because of the strike, it was learned from diplomatic information today. Among the countries which will feel the effects of a prolonged strike very soon are Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Brazil and Chile.

LOCAL SUPPLY IS STILL SHORT

University and Water and Light Plant Have Some Coal.

Those in touch with the local coal situation say it is still serious and is likely to remain so for several days, at least until the mines resume normal production. The economies that have been used since the miners walked out are still in force.

A. L. Westcott, superintendent of buildings at the University, said this morning that the fuel administration had allowed the University two cars so far this week. One is still on the Wabash tracks and the other was used Monday. As soon as conditions are normal, Mr. Westcott said, the mine which has the University contract will resume shipments. In the meantime, Academic Hall will remain closed at night and University activities that would have been held there in the evenings will be postponed for this week at least.

The city water and light plant has enough coal for all absolute necessities, but until the situation is less serious the street lights will continue to be unlighted, according to J. E. Barnett, secretary of the department.

Arbitrators selected by the local barbers and proprietors met last night to try to settle the strike. A. E. Rothwell and J. M. Mathis were chosen to represent the journeymen and W. W. Garth and B. C. Hunt to represent the proprietors. J. E. Higbee was chosen as fifth man.

Nothing definite has been decided with regard to the increase in pay for the journeymen, according to a statement this afternoon by one of the proprietors. The arbitrators are now working upon the books of the different union shops of the city in order to get a fair report of the receipts, expenses and profits of the shops.

From these reports a decision will be made as to whether or not the increase in pay will be granted the journeymen. Leonard Morris, one of the proprietors, said that it would be several days before this investigation of the books could be completed. Books from all the shops have not been submitted as yet.

Another meeting will be held tomorrow night.

C. H. S. ASSOCIATION MEETS

Mrs. H. W. Hibbard Is Elected President of the Society.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Columbia High School, at its meeting Monday afternoon, discussed an anonymous letter that had been written to the Evening Missourian and turned over to the association, in which grading at the school was condemned. A Missourian reporter, who was excluded from the meeting, was told afterward that the letter was referred unofficially to some of the members of the association. It was also said that "some surprise was expressed that the Missourian would print an anonymous letter and would mention the name of a teacher in connection with it."

This, of course, is just what the Missourian did not do. The Missourian did not publish the communication but in a brief news story called attention to the fact that it had received such a letter and told of the character of its contents in a very general way. At the time of its receipt the letter was shown to officers of the society, who said that they had heard of the complaint but declined to make any statements. Later the letter was turned over to the association for its benefit.

Mrs. M. A. Hart, who had been nominated for the office of president of the club, yesterday declined the office. Mrs. H. W. Hibbard was elected president. She made a partial report on the program for the coming year. Mrs. John N. Taylor presented the constitution and by-laws which were adopted. Miss Ella V. Dobbs made a short talk.

I. W. W.'S KILL FOUR IN ARMISTICE PARADE

Massacre Carefully Planned by Radicals Who Fired on Former Soldiers.

FIVE ARE WOUNDED

One Red Is Lynched and I. W. W. Hall Burned by Mob.

By United Press.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 12.—Warren Grim, a lawyer, Ben Cassagrande, a real estate man, and Dale Hubbard, all former service men, died late yesterday from wounds received when Industrial Workers of the World fired on the Armistice Day parade yesterday. Arthur McAlfresh was killed outright during the parade. The other five men who were wounded will recover, it is said.

Six I. W. W.'s were arrested last night.

The Armistice Day massacre of four former soldiers here was carefully planned by I. W. W. members, according to developments arising today.

According to the police, a special meeting of the I. W. W.'s was held yesterday, and high powered rifles were taken into the building.

The firing was governed by a pre-arranged signal.

Gunmen Fired From Windows.

The windows of the building in which the gunmen were stationed had been previously opened. The riflemen were some distance inside and could not be seen from the street.

The front rank of the parade was subjected to fire from three sides. Simultaneously with the firing from the building, firing came from a hill, one-half mile distant.

Centralia was quiet today, while troops guarded the streets and jail. Until a company of state militia arrived at midnight, it was doubtful whether the police could protect the nineteen prisoners in jail from the crowd, estimated at 2,000, which cried "Lynch them."

Operators of the Department of Justice are gathering here today to plan a concentrated campaign to wipe out I. W. W.'s.

I. W. W. Hanged From Bridge.

The body of one I. W. W., "Brick" Smith, still hung from a bridge early today. He was lynched by a small crowd of men, who captured him after he had ran from the I. W. W. Hall.

The killing started when the parade of former service men began to mark time in front of the I. W. W. headquarters.

The I. W. W.'s ran from the hall as the crowd charged the building.

Smith fired several shots as he ran from the building, and was pursued. He turned and shot Dale Hubbard, former soldier, three times through the body. Hubbard died.

The mob, meanwhile, fired the hall, after looting it. An attempt was first made to mob Smith behind the building.

Last night the lights of the city were suddenly switched out. Smith was taken from the jail and lynched. The city undertakers refused to take the body.
